

TROLLEYS CRASH, SCHOLAR, SHOT, ONE MAN KILLED.

In Head-On Collision in West Farms Motormen Were Injured—One Died at His Post, the Other's Leg Broken.

PASSENGERS WERE UNHURT.

Cars Came Together in a Dense Fog and Crippled Man Is in the Hospital, a Prisoner, Charged with Homicide.

In a head-on collision between two cars of the Union Railway Company at Washington avenue and West Farms road at an early hour this morning, John McCabe, the motorman of one car, was instantly killed, and George Buzzard, the motorman of the other car, was taken to Fordham Hospital with a broken leg. The latter is under arrest charged with homicide.

The accident happened during a dense fog, and so sudden was the collision that the passengers in the cars could not make a move to escape. Fortunately no one of them was injured save for the shock and the shaking up they received.

About one hundred feet from the scene of the accident there is a switch, and for some distance the cars of the West Farms line run on a single track. No. 324, in charge of George Buzzard, No. 1339 Tremont avenue, was coming west.

According to the police, the west-bound car should have remained on the switch to await the passing of the east-bound car. When Buzzard reached the switch, according to the police, he did not hold his car, but went on down the single track.

Both cars were making good time. Buzzard made out the light of McCabe's car through the dense fog when he was only five feet from it. At the same time McCabe saw the car bearing down upon him on the single track. Both men frantically shut off the power and applied the brakes. Their efforts were in vain and the cars came together with a crash.

McCabe was pinned up between the dashboard and the front part of the car. He was crushed to death and died almost instantly. Buzzard attempted to jump, but was thrown against the side of his car and received a fracture of the right leg.

The front platforms of both cars were smashed in, the sides were sprung and every window broken. Both cars were thrown off the track.

There were twelve persons in the westbound car and seven in the other.

SCHOLAR, SHOT, FELL OFF CHAIR.

An Election Celebrator's Bullet Crashed Through Window and Killed Little Chap as He Sat at Table in an Institution.

MOB AFTER THE ASSAILANT.

He Was Found Hiding Under a Bed with Hot Pistol on a Shelf Near By and Empty Cartridges on the Floor.

Vito Collabuso, a little Italian boy, was shot dead this morning as he sat at the dining table in the Italian Industrial School at No. 347 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street, the victim of an election celebration. Tony Osterano, who lives just behind the school at No. 312 One Hundred and Fifteenth street, is charged with firing the shot that killed the boy.

The boy was chatting with his companions in the school when a shot rang out, the window was broken and Vito fell from his chair to the floor. The other boys ran from the room and their cries of terror attracted Miss Frances Puccerelli, the matron. She rushed into the dining-room to find the boy dying.

A physician was summoned, but when he arrived Vito was dead. Word was sent to the East One Hundred and Fourth street police station and detectives started a house-to-house search along One Hundred and Fifteenth street. At No. 312 they found a revolver on the shelf in the room facing the Industrial School. The chamber was hot and five discharged cartridges were found on the floor. Osterano was hiding under the bed.

Neighbors heard the shots and told the police they came from the room occupied by Osterano. When it became known throughout the neighborhood that Vito was dead a mob gathered around Osterano's house and threatened violence when the police put him in the patrol wagon. He was hurried away to the station-house.

Vito Collabuso is seven and has only been an inmate of the school since Sunday. It was on that morning that Vito's mother robbed her husband of the $300 he had saved from his earnings as a laborer and ran away with another man. Vito was once placed in the Italian institution.

The front platforms of both cars were smashed in, the sides were sprung and every window broken. Both cars were thrown off the track.

There were twelve persons in the westbound car and seven in the other.

FISH WORE HER WEDDING RING.

Codfish, Presumably from Fisher's Island, Picked It Up, and for Twenty-three Years It Reposed in His Stomach.

FINDER GOT IT AT MARKET.

Henry Bevermann, who found a gold wedding ring imbedded in the stomach of a big codfish, will now have an opportunity of returning the same to its rightful owner.

On Thursday, Oct. 30, Mr. Bevermann, who is employed by George Spor at No. 8 Barclay street, this city, purchased one-half of an eighteen-pound codfish at Fulton Market, and while cleaning the same his knife struck a hard substance, which upon investigation proved to be a wedding ring. The ring bore the inscription, "Low to Lou, '79," and it was the opinion of Mr. Bevermann that the ring had been swallowed by the fish, and that it had remained imbedded within its anatomy for many years.

Various newspapers printed the story, and a few days later an item in a Boston paper met the eye of a friend of Mrs. Louis H. Alton, of Putnam, Conn., who at once called her attention to the same.

Mrs. Alton believes that the ring is her own and has taken steps to try and recover it. In an interesting letter to the editor of the paper above mentioned she says:

"Dear Sir—A reader of your paper handed me a clipping dated Friday, Oct. 31, which told of the finding of a gold ring in the body of a fish.

"I wish to say that I lost my wedding ring while bathing off Osprey Beach, which is a part of Fisher's Island. It happened in this way: I attended a Sabbath-school picnic, given by the Baptist Church, in 1879. With other young people I went in bathing and in throwing water upon each other my ring slipped off. Our minister's son, Prof. Frank Bronson, dove a number of times but could not find it. He tried to console me by saying that probably it would find its way to the bottom. I would find it some day. My heart was not so easily comforted, however.

"I should be made very happy if this proved to be my ring. As near as I can remember the inscription read: 'From Louis to Lucie, '81.' I was married June 30 of that year, but have forgotten if the month and date of month was included in the inscription. As I am a good ways from New York it would not be convenient for me to apply to Mr. Bevermann in person. If not too much trouble would you kindly reply and gratefully oblige, LUCIE F. ALTON, 122 Ring street, Putnam, Conn. (Mrs. Louis H. Alton).

"P. S.—I only want to say that the ring was a plain flat band. L. F. A."
